Name: FLORENCIO - Colt

Sire: Flower Alley

Foaled: March 12, 2014

Dam: Jasmine Gardens by Mineshaft

There was very little not to like about this colt. He stood over a lot of ground. He had a big walk with a great over stride. He looked like he could grow a bunch. So, how did he stay affordable? Well, he is from Flower Alley, a great race horse and the best sire by Distorted Humor. However, the fickle buying market never fell in love with this sire and prior to this horse walking through the sale ring it had been announced Flower Alley was sold to South Africa. Also, buyer's have short term memories. Recent visions of American Pharoah obscured the not-so-distant near triple-crown run of Flower Alley's son, I'll Have Another. Couple the lackluster sire enthusiasm, with a short tail and an early spot in the auction and we were set up well to pounce on this one at a good value when he came through the ring.

This horse has trained well. He has also grown significantly since the fall. While bred to run Classic distances, he has moved forward well and looks ready for a ship to the track by mid-summer 2016. Flower Alley won the Travers and ran second in the Breeder's Cup Classic. Florencio's Dam, Jasmine Gardens, was stakes placed twice and won four races all at a mile or more. Her sire, Mineshaft, won more than $2.2MM during his four-year-old year, winning seven stakes at distances between 9-10 furlongs. We like what we are seeing in Florencio, his biggest challenge will be getting two turn races as soon as he wants them. What could be more exciting than having a well-bred colt, designed to run distances between 8-12 furlongs heading into his three-year-old year?

Flower Alley – Sire of Champions

FLOWER ALLEY is the best sire yet by DISTORTED HUMOR. He made his mark early as the sire of 10 Stakes Winners, five Graded Stakes Winners, and three Grade 1 Stakes Winners in his first two crops. Most notably, he was the sire of Kentucky Derby and Preakness Winner I'LL HAVE ANOTHER. As a racehorse, he won more than $2,500,000 including the Travers Stakes (Gr. 1) and several other notable Graded Stakes Races. Crossing FLOWER ALLEY with a MINESHAFT mare should produce a two-turn monster.
